3 - BANTAM SOFTFEATHER LIGHT

Firstly I judged the Ancona females, it was pleasing to see good v-ticking all over. Then I went onto the Japanese Bantams, I found a young cock bird that was in very good feather and showed itself very well. I put it up for Best Bantam Softfeather Light.

Leghorns; I put up a white cockerel for Best Leghorn Bantam, quite a nice fowl; very well presented, but lacked a little bit of lobe which detracted from him slightly. The Black Leghorns I found were getting a bit tired and looked as if they had been shown quite a lot and their combs were starting to turn. Then the Buff Leghorns were a very nice colour and their under colour was very good, and the winning female was the best Buff.

I found in General that a lot of the Leghorn males and females are getting quite big. The female Leghorns also show a tendency to be a bit pale in the face.

4 - BANTAM SOFTFEATHER HEAVY

I would like to thank the Melbourne Royal Agricultural Society for inviting me to judge the Heavy Softfeather Bantams.

Starting with the Australian Langshans, the winning cockerel had a nice type with a lovely green sheen. The winning pullet had a lovely back line and excellent feather quality which become the best Langshan.

It was a pleasure to see a good line-up of Frizzles of all colours. One particular note about the frizzles is to be careful with the feathers being so narrow, and the size of the birds. Next, the Pekins, my winning Pekin was a black Pekin hen which then became the best Bantam Sofffeather Heavy, shown in lovely condition and very fresh in the face. There were other good quality Pekins exhibited but they weren't quite in Show condition i.e. pale faces and dried out feathers. Also, one thing I noticed about the Pekins was that the eye colour has started to fade.

Only one Plymouth Rock was exhibited which was a nice hen of type and colour.

The Rhode Island Red Bantams had large numbers which was pleasing to see with the winning cockerel very good in type but needed the tail to be slightly more raised. The winning pullet was also good in body type but suffered the same problem with the tail as the cockerel. The feather condition was very dry on some of the birds.

It was a pleasure to see such a wide range of coloured Wyandottes. Some are lacking in type and eye colour which will need to have more attention paid to breeding. The white Wyandottes were fairly varied in type and size. The best white Wyandotte was a hen which went on to win Reserve Bantam Sofffeather Heavy. The white cockerels were poor in type and the winner stood out in the class. The white pullets were out of condition and very dry in the feather quality, also varying in type.

In judging the trios, there was a nice trio of Langshan Bantams which could have been shown in the open class and may have won a place in each of the sections.

5 - STANDARD SOFTFEATHER LIGHT

The Ancona classes were small in numbers and the quality was pretty poor, the winning bird was a hen.

Silver Pencilled Hamburgs was quite a large class; the female was probably the best of the breed.

Black Hamburg cockerels, only three in the class, the winning bird was quite a nice type and well presented.

Pullets were the best, the black being the winner; a nice type and well presented also.

Leghorn blue cockerels, only two in the class and still in need of some improvement. Only one brown Leghorn hen, quite nice but showing her age. Brown cockerels, three in the class, the winner was a nice type and colour and a worthy winner. White Leghorn was Champion Large Leghorn, a very nice type, well presented and a credit to the exhibitor, and went on to win Best Standard Light Softfeather.

Silkies were a fairly mixed lot, the best was well presented and a worthy winner on the day.

The Reserve Standard Softfeather Light was a black Leghorn of very nice type and a worthy winner on the day.

6 - STANDARD HARDFEATHER (GAME)

An excellent line up of large black red and partridge; cocks a little on the heavy side but very alert and in good Show condition. Hens; the winners fit and showing good carriage and angle of back with correct tail set. Cockerels; great line up with the Reserve Champion Bird in Show coming out of this class. Pullets a bit of a mixed bag, as some not fit and just not up to show condition.

Black red light legs; three not bad fowls.

Blue reds; males good, females not quite up to Show condition.

One brown red cockerel, a nice fowl.

Duckwings a good class, males a little savage.

Blue or blue A.O.C; two nice cockerels and an excellent hen. She was my Reserve Champion Large Hardfeather, very fit and showing very good carriage. This is the type of bird we should be striving to breed and Show.
